All printed language is English; no listening material.

Each case is decided by two printed clues: place plus quantity (Document 01) or actor plus frequency/polarity (Document 02).

Healthy controls are included (01-02, 01-04 control facts, 02-04); not every message is wrong.

Transfer items (01-07, 02-06) use new explicit data; the worked examples use different data from every exercise.

Short reason items (01-04, 01-07, 02-05) accept a brief clue-based phrase; no long grammar essay is required.

School Inventories: there is, there are

EM1-01-01

1. There is 12 tables in the library.

There are 12 tables in the library.

2. There is one sink in the art room.

There is one sink in the art room.

Healthy control: one sink is singular and the message matches both clues, so it is kept.

Accept the sentence as printed. Also accept: OK / correct. Reject: there are.

EM1-01-03

3. There are some water in the gym.

There is some water in the gym.

Water is not countable; uncountable nouns take there is even with some.

Accept: There is some water in the gym. Reject: there are.

EM1-01-04

4. There is one dictionary on the shelf.

There is one dictionary on the shelf. Reason: one dictionary (singular).

Quantity clue: one dictionary decides the singular form; the cross clue (four magazines) is not part of the tested message.

Accept option B plus a short reason citing one dictionary or singular.

Reject: option A.

EM1-01-05

5. There ____ three guitars in the music room.

are

Quantity clue: three guitars, plural, so there are; no object is added.

Accept: are. Reject: is; invented objects.

EM1-01-06

6. There is four laptops and one projector in the science lab.

There are four laptops and one projector in the science lab.

With a list, the first item decides: four laptops is plural, so there are.

Accept: There are four laptops and one projector in the science lab.

Reject: there is.

EM1-01-07

7. New place: the canteen. Two fridges.

There are two fridges in the canteen. Reason: two fridges (plural).

Explicit transfer: the fridges row gives a plural quantity in the canteen; the reason names the deciding clue.

Accept a true message about the two fridges plus a short reason citing two fridges or plural. Reject: there is; messages about the microwave here.

EM1-02-01

1. Elena ____ basketball twice a week.

plays

Actor clue: Elena is one person; tick keeps the sentence affirmative, so plays.

Accept: plays. Reject: play; plays.

EM1-02-02

2. MARCO AND LUCA — ride their bikes — every day — tick.

Marco and Luca ride their bikes every day.

Two people act like they; affirmative tick, so the base form ride is correct.

Accept: Marco and Luca ride their bikes every day. Also accept: They ride their bikes every day. Reject: rides.

EM1-02-03

3. Sara don't like maths on Mondays.

Sara doesn't like maths on Mondays.

The cross keeps the sentence negative; with one person the auxiliary is doesn't and the verb stays in the base form like.

Accept: Sara doesn't like maths on Mondays. Reject: Sara don't...; doesn't likes.
