LA REGLA

In inglese il colore va PRIMA del nome e non cambia mai: a red car, two red cars. Qui trovi gli undici colori veri, i modificatori light e dark e le parole che quasi tutti scrivono male.

¡Ojo! — el fallo típico. Mettere il colore dopo, come in italiano: «a car red». È a red car, e al plurale non cambia: two red cars, mai «two reds cars». E la trappola italiana: un solo blue per blu e azzurro, e red non è «rete», è rosso.

1 La stessa parola si scrive in due modi. Quale appartiene a ciascuna sponda dell'Atlantico?
